1. As a college student, what three issues concern you most in Winston-Salem, and why?

1. Winston-Salem's appreciation for the arts is decreasing. This is concerning because as a city, we are named the "City of the Arts," and failing to live up to that name would ~~bring~~ bring a poor reputation.
 2. Winston-Salem is known for its hunger issues - in fact, this year's freshmen at WFU completed a summer academic project concerning this. Clearly, this is a striking blow to our community as a whole in addition to a major percentage of the population's health.
 3. A city with four major colleges, Winston-Salem is a city with a reputation of having many alcoholic, drunk teenage college students. I hope that this issue is resolved and the media stops attacking ~~this~~ and exaggerating this aspect of society.

2. Explain a time when your college/university collaborated with the local community and how this experience benefited both students and the public.

As a well-known school, Wake Forest University often provides events or location for events involving the Winston-Salem community, especially youth. For example, WFU holds a yearly Fall Festival, during which free food, music, live music, games, and inflatable fun houses/slides are available. Held on a Friday, it is not only a way to tie together our school and community, but also provides a stress relief for students on campus.

3. What change/effect do you plan to have on the local community before you graduate?

I hope to better assimilate into Winston-Salem's culture of arts and discover the meaning behind its name "City of the Arts." Being an advocate and performer of the arts myself, I hope to provide more opportunities for the community to appreciate its name through performance opportunities and events.
